Do you think that too many single yellow lines have been changed to double lines (yes or no)?

Some people have suggested that the boundary between Zone Y and Z should be moved. Which of the following proposals would you support?

- a) Leaving the boundary where it is.
- b) Moving the boundary north to put Clifton Terrace and Victoria Road into Zone Z.
- c) Moving the boundary south down to Western Road to put the roads above into Zone Y.

Your preference (a, b or c) or other suggestion:

Are you aware of any significant intra-zone commuting (driving within a zone in order to get closer to the shops or the station etc.) having developed as a result of having larger zones (yes or no)?

Have you or others in your street been successful in getting changes made DURING implementation of the new scheme? If so what and how?

With regards to the street you represent, are there any changes that you would propose, such as returning certain sections of double yellow lines to a single line or changing the length of particular parking areas?
